

Biologique Recherche Hyper-Customized Body Treatments

Evaluation Stage

This evaluation is based on a visual analysis that enables us to identify each individual's Skin Instant® in order to recommend the most suitable treatment.

Initialization Stage

This phase of skin preparation is an essential step to optimize the results of subsequent steps. For natural and physiological reasons, the epidermis of the body is more sensitive to dehydration and has fewer sebaceous glands than the face, except for the back and neckline. With age, the cohesion between cells worsens, the process of natural exfoliation declines, cell regeneration is slower and epidermal cells are of a lower quality, gradually altering the barrier function of the epidermis.

Treatment Stage

Biologique Recherche offers specific oils and creams to treat, repair and beautify the skin of the body. Used alone or in combination to potentiate the action of active ingredients, their textures penetrate quickly into the skin and do not leave a greasy and occlusive film. The treatment phase is an essential step in regaining a harmonious, firmed, and invigorated body.

Biologique Recherche Boosters

Biologique Recherche has produced a range of cutting-edge boosters for use solely by skin professionals who have received rigorous training from Biologique Recherche to learn the high standards of specialized applications. These highly technical products are used differently, depending on the individual skin needs, with specific techniques and massage gestures which have been designed by a physiotherapist. These boosters...

- Contain high concentrations of vitamin, mineral, botanical, marine and biological extracts
- Never contain artificial fragrances
- Utilize cold formulations to preserve and respect the integrity and structure of the raw ingredients, as heat methods can destroy the antioxidant, vitamin or biologic value of ingredient
- Contain the highest quality of active ingredients available on the market
